

P R O E M.

GENTLE READER!

LO, here a CAMERA OBSCURA is presented to thy view, in which are lights and shades dancing on a whited canvas, and magnified into apparent life!--if thou art perfectly at leasure for such trivial amusement, walk in,

and

and view the wonders of my INCHANTED GARDEN.

Whereas P. OVIDIUS NASO, a great Necromancer in the famous Court of AUGUSTUS CÆSAR, did by art poetic transmute Men, Women, and even Gods and Goddeffes, into Trees and Flowers; I have undertaken by fimilar art to reftore fome of them to their original animality, after having remained prifoners fo long in their refpective vegetable manfions; and have here exhibited them before thee. Which thou may'ft contemplate as diverfe little pictures fufpended over the chimney of a Lady's drefling-room, connected only by a flight feftoon of ribbons. And which, though

though thou may'st not be acquainted with the originals, may amuse thee by the beauty of their persons, their graceful attitudes, or the brilliancy of their drefs.

FAREWELL.
